Singapore Cooperation Programme

Singapore has provided technical assistance to other developing countries since the 1960s. As a country whose only resource is its people, Singapore believes that human resource development is vital for economic and social progress. Singapore itself has benefited from training provided by other countries and international organisations.

In 1992, the Singapore Cooperation Programme (SCP) was established to bring together under one framework the various technical assistance programmes offered by Singapore. Through the SCP, the range and number of training programmes were increased to share Singapore’s development experience with other developing countries. To date, Singapore has sponsored training courses and study visits for more than 100,000 officials from more than 170 countries. The SCP is managed by the Technical Cooperation Directorate of the Singapore Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

ICT4Peace Foundation

ICT4Peace is a policy and action-oriented international Foundation in Geneva (www.ict4peace.org). The purpose is to save lives and protect human dignity through Information and Communication Technology. ICT4Peace promotes cyber-security and a peaceful cyberspace through international negotiations with governments, companies and non-state actors. It also explores and champions the use of ICTs and media for Crisis management, humanitarian aid and peace building. An overview of the ICT4Peace Foundation’s work in Cyber-Security can be found at http://bit.ly/1Ds7yCV.

Course Objectives

This course aims to provide a deeper understanding of international cyber policy issues to public officials and diplomats. It develops an understanding of what constitutes responsible State behaviour in cyberspace and the related concepts of international norms and Confidence Building Measures (CBMs) as well as international cooperation in cyber security. This understanding allows a broader informed participation by Governments in international debates and global, regional and bilateral cyber security negotiations. Participants will gain concrete knowledge about national concerns, best practices, policies and institutional arrangements in the field of cyber security at the global and regional level. The course also aims to build a network of alumni, lecturers and experts to update and exchange information on future developments in the global and regional international cyber security debate, research and negotiations.

Synopsis

The workshop will provide opportunities for participants to discuss and learn the concerns, best practices and policies on cyber security at the regional level.
The workshop agenda is based on current international cyber security dialogues at the UN and selected regional organisations such as ASEAN Regional Forum (ARF); Organisation of American States (OAS) and; Organisation for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE).

- International cyber security: Background, context and recent developments;
- Current cyber security consultations and negotiations efforts at the global, regional and bilateral level
- Cyber security and International law
- Norms of responsible state behaviour
- Building confidence between states, including examples of Confidence Building Measures (CBMs) and the role of International and Regional Organisations
- Regional perspectives and policy options

There will also be a simulation exercise where participants can deepen their knowledge and understanding of the topics learned during the course, and develop a consensus text on regional cyber-security cooperation.

Speakers

The workshop will feature senior experts and diplomats with practical experience and who are engaged in on-going, global, regional and bilateral cyber-security negotiations, in particular on the applicability of the international law and developing norms of responsible state behaviour, confidence building measures, international cooperation and capacity building.
