

Press Conference at the UN, 2 December 2016

Left: Daniel Stauffacher, Ambassador (ret.), Founder and President, ICT4Peace Foundation, Rapporteur

Middle: Jean-Paul Laborde, Executive Director of Counter-Terrorism Executive Directorate

Right: RasmusWandall, General Counsel to the Intl Association of Prosecutors & Affiliated Research Fellow, Uni of Bergen, Norway

The UN CTED Technical Session that marked the first day of meetings featured a panel on “International cooperation and public-private partnership while respecting international human rights”, during which members of the UNCTED-ICT4Peace project Advisory Group from Microsoft, Facebook and Telefónica presented on how their companies are responding to terrorist use of their technologies and services, and the normative framework guiding that response. The session was moderated by Daniel Stauffacher, President of ICT4Peace, and can be watched here. During the CTC session the following day, Rafal Rohozinski, CEO of SecDev, and also a member of the project Advisory Group discussed the use of big data analytics in assessing the threat of terrorism and preventing violent extremism, highlighting a number of important findings from applied research.

The video is available here.